TUCK'S POST CARD

CARTE POSTALE. POSTKARTE.

The Nave, West. The Cathedral is most impressive entered by the West Front and seen looking down the Nave. The Lady Chapel (probably, though not certainly, 15th century) is on the right of the Nave, which, like the Choir, has aisles, and is divided from the Choir by a screen ornamented with eight statues. The Nave has a flat wooden ceiling, and in its south transept is a brass mural tablet to Charles Dickens, who wrote of Rochester as Cloisterham in "Edwin Drood."
